Sophia is your premier 3-and-D player and an intelligent player with a high team-playing ability. Her shooting stroke is her known strength but her post offensive skills are underrated and can be a force when matched-up with a smaller defender. As a 3-and-D player in college, it is evident that she can play defense on the perimeter but she can defend the post very well. In college, she fit any role that her team and coaches needed her to be, but her basketball career before Division I was her as the highest usage player and took over a game at any moment with her high scoring ability. Sophia can rebound very well from the wing position by using her instincts and intelligence. Sophia plays with tenacity and toughness both ways and has a high motor to fit any team and playing-style.
